Originally published in Overland Monthly (1929) during the first decade of Manly Hall's writing and teaching career; reprinted in 1958 in the omnibus edition Collected Writings, Vol.1 - Early Works. Largely based on his travels around the world during 1923-1924, this essay is a travelogue of curious and esoteric practices of mysterious Asia witnessed first-hand, including: Holy Men in India, the Gobi Desert, Sorcery of Tibet, Burmas Shwe Dagon Pagoda, Jaipurs Astronomical Observatory, Parsee Towers of Silence in Bombay, and the magic of Far Eastern conjurers and magicians.
