

Competing Modernisms: Torontos New City Hall and Square

The 1958 competition for Torontos new city hall and public square was the largest competition of its era, attracting more architects than even the 1956 Sydney Opera House competition. While the outcome is well known - Finnish architect Viljo Revells complex opened to public acclaim in 1965 - what is lesser known to specialists and to the general public is the amazing variety of projects that were submitted from around the world. Weaving a tale that is equal parts civic, cultural, and architectural history, the authors explore the impact of the competition on the design of public institutions and urban spaces in Canada, and reflect on the value of architectural competitions as modern architecture developed in the mid-20th century. Accompanied by a selection of 50 official entries each illustrated with original drawings and models, as well as a complete listing of the more than 500 participating architects and architectural firms.
