DONT GO IN ALONE! The top-floor hurricane party went well until the freakish storm forced the party-goers into the Cancer Research Institutes basement. Now their only escape is through a labyrinth of barely-lit tunnels that are rapidly flooding. Pretty biologist Carmen Niles leads the others through the maze, and falls into a deadly scheme to sabotage the Institutes experiments, involving a biker drug gang, psychics, stock fraud, and one-minute piranhas made by experimental computer genechips. Few heed Eds warnings that this water is from the spirit world, and that their best protection will not be science, but charms and incantations. Brisk dialogue and a tight roller-coaster plot that leaves the reader guessing from one plot twist to the next until the very last page and paragraph. A plot worthy of the movies, say reviewers in this speculative sci-fi novel based on the ideas of the famous physicist Stephen Wolfram.
