Quirky, cute and utterly romantic Bestselling author Rebecca RaisinMonique and Issy are teachers, housemates and lovers of musicals! So when Moniques boyfriend moves to America for a year and her sister Grace moves in because of her own relationship woes, Friday nights get a new name The Singalong Society for Singletons! Its a chance to get together, sing along to their favourite tracks from the best-loved West End shows, and forget the worries of work, relationships and love (or lack of it). But when Issy shares the details of their little group further afield, they get some unexpected new members who might just change their opinions on singledom for good.
