

Terrors of Pleasure

Author, actor, and poet laureate of neurosis, Spalding Gray is an American treasure, giving voice to our unspoken fears and ambitions. In this recording, he walks us through the terrors of buying a home, terrors which he experienced first-hand when he bought his house in the Catskill Mountains. The shattering experience of trying to own a home is saved by his hilarious and sobering telling of the little house that cried. Spalding's monologues, Swimming to Cambodia and Monster in a Box, have both been made into critically acclaimed feature films. He is the best selling author of Impossible Vacation, Sex and Death to the Age 14, Swimming to Cambodia, and Monster in a Box.
